

Mohamed Sahnouni

- Position Research Scientist, Stone Age Institute and CRAFT Research Center, Indiana University, Bloomington.
- Education
- 1996 Ph.D., Indiana University at Bloomington. Anthropology
 - 1993 M.A. Indiana University at Bloomington. Anthropology
 - 1985 Doctorat 3eme cycle, Université Pierre et Marie Curie (Paris VI), France. Quaternary Geology, Human Paleontology, and Prehistory
 - 1982 D.E.A. Université Pierre et Marie Curie (Paris VI) and Museum National d'Histoire Naturelle, Paris, France. Quaternary Geology
 - 1981 B.A. University of Algiers. Archaeology, Social Sciences
- Areas of Special Interest Human evolutionary studies, Old World Archaeology, Paleoanthropology, Lithic technology & typology, Geo-Archaeology, African Prehistory, Prehistory of North African and Middle East, Prehistoric Rock Art, Plio-Pleistone stratigraphy & Biochronology.
- Ongoing research Early hominid occupation and adaptation in North Africa: Paleoanthropological investigations in the Setifian sedimentary basin, northeastern Algeria.
- Research Grants L.S.B. Leakey Foundation, Wenner-Gren Foundation for Anthropological Research, National Geographic Society for Exploration and Research, Vice-President for Research at University of Algiers, Ministry of Higher Education and Scientific Research (Algeria), Ministry of Science and Technology of Spain, Autonomous Government of Catalonia (Spain).